

Compass BIO: The Future of CMC Structured Content & Data Management

Compass BIO is a purpose-built Structured Content and Data Management (SCDM) platform designed for BioPharma and CDMO organizations. It brings rigor, traceability, and connectivity to all CMC data generated during analytical and process development, replacing fragmented spreadsheets and document silos with a single, unified environment. By capturing every process, material, method, parameter, and result once and linking it to its source, Compass BIO drives comprehensive risk management, criticality analysis, and technology transfer, and streamlines regulatory submissions with a compelling ROI. Compass BIO not only unifies fragmented CMC data, but transforms it into AI-ready structured content—providing the trusted foundation required for advanced analytics, predictive insights, and future AI-driven workflows.

Unifying Technology Transfer. Accelerate What Matters.

From fragmented workflows to connected, compliant execution across the lifecycle.

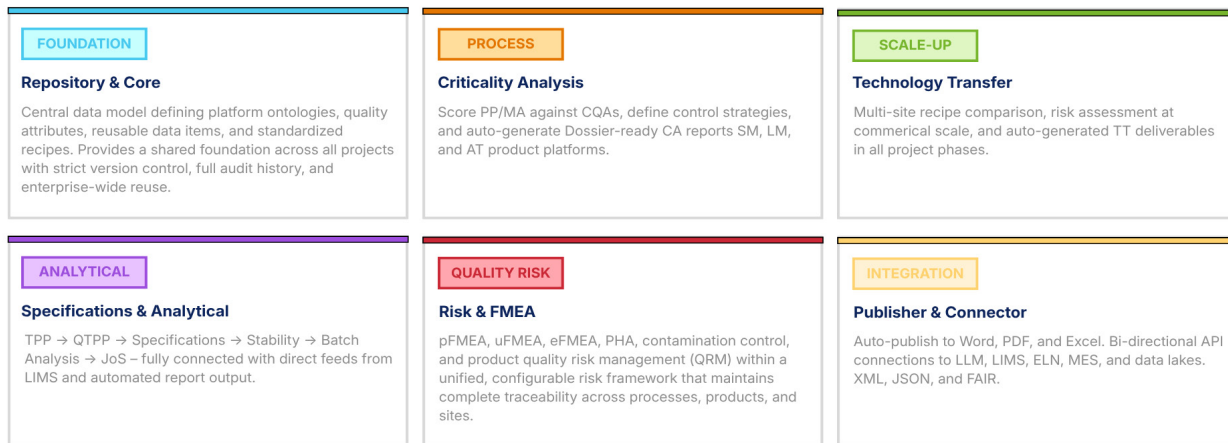

The Problem: Fragmented Data Crisis

Currently, Biopharma and CDMO organizations manage critical CMC information through a “paper-on-glass” approach. Key data is trapped in disconnected silos and in multiple software systems:

- Static Documents: Thousands of Word files and PDFs that cannot “talk” to one another.
- Shadow Data: Critical calculations and “recipes” living in personal Excel spreadsheets.
- Manual Records: Lab notebooks that lack digital searchability or connectivity.
- AI Readiness Gap: CMC data spread across disconnected systems makes AI difficult to implement.

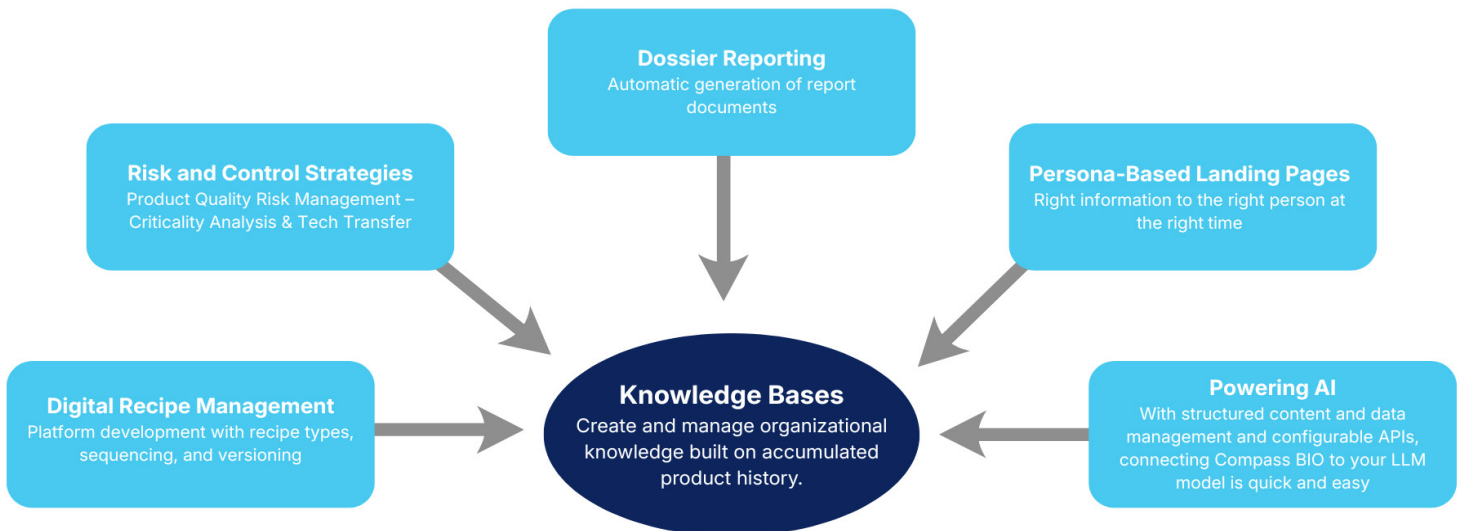

When teams need to find information, prove how a decision was made, or transfer a drug recipe from one site to another, it can be slow, challenging, and prone to mistakes.

The Solution: A Complete, Modular Platform for BioPharma & CDMOs to Manage

The Digital Thread for Biopharma Product Development and Tech Transfer

Structured content and data management enables the creation of reuse of knowledge across the organization while maintaining comprehensive risk controls and analytics. The digital thread created powers efficiency, accuracy, and insights across the CMC organization.
